Few people know this: a broken network of old passages and abandoned rooms. A young woman lives range, hidden among the extensive sole of Undering, comfortable in the heart of this forgotten place. Her name is auri, and she is full of mixed. From Auri's life, a small adventure in itself. At the same time cheerful and scary, this story offers the chance to see the world through Auri's eyes. And give the listener the chance to learn things that only Auri knows ... In this book, Patrick Rothfuss takes us to the world of the most enigmatic characters of Kingkiller Chronicle. Full of secrets and mystance, the slow consideration of silent things is the story of a broken girl trying to live in a broken world. Patrick James Rothfuss is an American fantasy writer. He is better known for his projected trilogy The Kingkiller Chronicle, which won prons, including the 2007 Quill Award for his Romance of Estrão. The Name of the Wind. His sequence, the fear of the Sambio man, led the New York Times best-sellers list. "This keyboard saw some shit, all," the author of Kingkiller Chronicle. Patrick Rothfuss, captured a photo of the 30-year-old Model M keyboard (originally manufactured by IBM, from 1984) in a recent blog post. Similar to George R.R. Martin, with Fan of Game of Thrones, Rothfuss is infinitely uncomfortable about his progress in the third book of his Kingkiller Chronicle, the highly-anticipated sequence of the man's name and fear, currently entitled The Doors of Stone. He has been remarkably sincere in his answers, admitting when "writing is not doing well," describing his approach to the writer's block and comparing the third book with a car engine under the the parts are all there, he's trying to find how they best fit together. Rarer are insights into the labor of writing itself. His worn keyboard attests to writing as more than a mental act."I typically write late at night, because it's quiet and there are fewer distractions," Rothfuss told Newsweek. "I'm pretty no frills." Rothfuss and lamb. Worldbuilders Inc. (How to help Heifer International and win awesome prizes as part of Rothfuss' Worldbuilders fundraiser, which runs through Dec. 11.)Rothfuss attributed his writing habits to a simple motive"ÁÁÁ"I hate and fear change"éÁÁÁbut it's easy to see in his choices a hint of ritual, cementing the practices that lead him to his debut, The Name of The Wind.He nicked his wooden chair from college 20 years ago. His desk is still a piece of plywood laid over two filing cabinets. "I keep feeling like I should upgrade, but this has been working okay for me so far," Rothfuss said.The Doors of Stone is being written under vastly different conditions. Rothfuss is now a public figure, with all the pressures of fandom and Hollywood has brought to bear. (Lin-Manuel Miranda is producing a Kingkiller movie.) But while he has little control over his celebrity, he can at least ensure that The Kingkiller Chronicle 's conclusion will be crafted using the same tools as the rest of the trilogy.Most important is that keyboard. "I honestly don't understand how people can get any productive work done on a laptop," Rothfuss said. "Typing on a laptop computer is this gummy, limp feeling, kind of like pushing my fingers on the surface of a slug." This old keyboard: it clicks," Rothfuss said. "I type on this keyboard and I feel really powerful and effective." But mostly, "it's just what I'm used to," Rothfuss said. "I'm, above all things, a creature of habit." However, while a launch date can be out of sight, Rothfuss recently said he was willing to release both the role and a complete chapter of his nearby romance in his Twitch Page. But, as always, there was a capture. Patrick Rothfuss often talks about his awaited romance in his Twitch Page. Occasionally, he will answer questions about the book, or discuss his creative process. During a recent flow, Rothfuss said he is always down to a risky bet and promised all his twitch chat that he would provide a first glimpse of The Doors of Stone if they were able to raise $ 100,000 before he could defeat Ender Dragon for the first time in Minecraft. This is not a rapid or fancil task, especially for a self-confessed player like him. "In a hubris adjustment, I bet the chat I could beat Ender Dragon before they raised $ 100,000 on my team's p. I dare them, he wrote in a blog post." I stunned and cajoled ... I told them if they won, I would read them the role of the book TRANS. And so the agreement was made. However, before he could complete the game, life got on the way and he finally forgot the deal he hit with the fan. á € œBe forget no bet makes a bet disappear. And to summarize a long story, after taking my game in my flow two days later, I lost. € Yes they won bet. I read them the time. Absolutely. They had it. They fought and won a lot. But the story does not end. Rothfuss decided to make a second bet and raise even higher bets: If his readers could raise $ 333,000 for his charity builders from the world, he would also provide a complete chapter, free of spoilers from The Doors of Stone! Fortunately, the high threshold was incredibly quickly achieved by readers hungry from the most of the Kingkiller, which means Rothfuss satroP satroP sad ogofÁÁrp o ratrebil a ol-ÁAv somav .oriemirP ?riugesnoc somav euq ©ÁÁ euq o .ofÉÁtnE .odnarepse odatse somet sÁAn sodot euq asnepmocer a rad son euq ¡Áret Stone, followed by a complete chapter without pampering of the novel. I imagine this is a type of parallel stories instead of a chapter of heavy conspiracy. Finally, Rothfuss will share some pages of his own grain romance Kingkiller illustrated by Dan dos Santos. Patrick Rothfuss visualizes a padga of his new grain romance Kingkillerothfuss not weird to write comics; His previous work includes a Rick and Morty and Dungeons & Dragons Crossover Comic. This new is situated in Temerant and seems to be Jax's story stealing the moon, a story told by Hesse in Kingkiller's second book, the fear of the Sambian man. You can check a page here. Of course, now that the bet has been fulfilled, we can expect to see a few more pages of this comic in the next days. Keep an eye! If you want to donate to builders of the world á € "a charity directed by geeks that helps support humanitarian causes around the world you can do so here!
